FORENSIC SCIENCE, DEATH, AND THE PUBLIC: TOWARDS EFFECTIVE AND COMPASSIONATE COMMUNICATION

Elizabeth DiGangi discusses engagement with the families of the Northern Arapaho tribe who were buried at the Carlisle Indian Industrial School during exhumation, analysis, and return proceedings. At AAPA 2018.

Date published: April 13, 2018

Resource Type: Video, Social Sciences, History of Science, Public Engagement, Ethics, Spirituality & Faith

Link: Forensic Science, Death, and the Public: Towards Effective and Compassionate Communication